Seminar Outline/Speakers

(Session 1) Revisiting Sun Tzu's Art of War – In the conduct of Construction Disputes

In this talk (a follow on to the July 2013 talk on Managing Construction Claims, the Sun Tzu way), Anil will continue to share his experiences of applying the Sun Tzu principles in the preparation and conduct of a construction dispute trial.

Anil Changaroth FCIArb FSIArb, has been in practice since 1995 following a five-years career as an infantry officer with the Singapore Armed Forces, graduating as a Barrister of England and Wales (Middle Temple). He is currently an Advocate and Solicitor of Singapore and Solicitor of England and Wales.

He established CHANGAROTH CHAMBERS LLC on 1st July 2014 with a focus of counselling the business and the business of counseling and is primarily involved with commercial, civil, corporate & criminal litigation and dispute resolution with a focus on construction related adjudication & arbitration (including as an Arbitrator). He represents parties in Singapore and the region including Australia, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Korea, Pakistan and Sri Lanka.

Anil has also been with the international arbitration practice group at the international law firm of Lovells Lee & Lee for a year and as in-house counsel, Director and Head of Contract Advisory and Dispute Management Services of the quantity surveying firm Davis Langdon & Seah Singapore Pte Ltd for two years before that dealing with construction industry dispute management services (including arbitration, adjudication & mediation), claims assessment, and front end contract advisory work for developers, building owners and contractors in residential, commercial, institutional, industrial, infrastructural and PPP projects.

(Session 2) Professional Indemnity Insurance – Are you protected?

Contractors and design professionals are increasingly facing significant financial risks as they expand their services beyond their traditional roles in a competitive business environment. Typically, they would rely on their Professional Indemnity (PI) insurance to provide the financial assistance when they run into legal suits. But how well will they be protected by the PI insurance? Does a PI policy cover allegation of a building being unfit for purpose? Does a PI policy cover claim which you reported a few months after you have failed to settle it commercially with the third party?

This presentation will explain coverage of a PI policy, including what are the claims that will fall within the domain of the policy and why some claims are not covered by it. Other topics covered include fitness for purpose exposure and annual vs project specific PI insurance

Jenny Lim has over 15 years of experience in risk and insurance consultancy.

She began her career in 1998 with Jardine Lloyd Thompson Private Limited (JLT) focusing in new business development for professional industries and multi-national companies. Her key scope of work in business development includes reviewing risk exposures, delivering consultative and transactional risk solutions for clients in diverse industries.

In 2007, she took over as the head of ProEx division in JLT and specializes in financial lines products such as Directors and Officer's Liability, Professional Indemnity and Crime insurance. Her client portfolio includes major financial institutions, architecture and engineering firms, technology companies as well as top main-board listed companies.

As part of her role, she is actively involved in assessing clients' objectives in term of their risk appetite, providing Insurance risk advisory and placement as well as advising complex claims. She has spoken about financial lines insurance at various specialized risk seminars organised by clients and insurers.

Jenny holds a Degree in Business with an insurance specialization from Nanyang Technology University of Singapore. She is also an Associate and Chartered Insurance Broker of the Chartered Insurance Institute in United Kingdom.
